Thousand's To Attend SDA The Spiritual Camp Meeting Begining July 26-Aug. 3

Black Voice News

SAN BERNARDINO
By Cheryl Brown

A big tent and lots of people are a yearly sight on different corners in the community signifying the Seventh Day Adventist summer tent meeting that lasts for two weekends is about to start. This year marks the seventh year the African American Seventh Day Adventist churches in the Inland Empire will hold camp meeting. The camp meeting is a time of renewal, through the preached word, baptism and saving lost souls. "It is a religious convocation in the tradition of the Israelites camps. People will be here from all over California, from Arizona, Nevada and Ohio," said Elder Anthony Paschall, vice President for Black Ministries, of the Southeastern California Conference.

This year's theme is 'Fit For His Coming'. It will be held in the beautiful Drayson Center in Loma Linda California. Gone is the tent and the air conditioned will be welcomed. There will also be a Black Business Expo held on August 3. Health issues that affect Black people will be focused on and prevention of preventable diseases will be high on the agenda. Surveys show Adventist live longer than non Adventists. The public is invited to attend any of the activities these two weekends.

Did Eisenhower Coach Abuse Players?

Black Voice News

RIALTO

By Roberto Carlos Hernandez

To some parents, she is unprofessional. To some students, she is guilty of outright abusive behavior. To others, she is a good teacher and coach who cares for her players.

Concerned parents are asking the Rialto Unified School District to remove Diane Vaughn from her current position of head coach of the Eisenhower High Girls Basketball team. The Parents Group of Eisenhower High have made serious allegations about Vaughn and her coaching. "Continuous mental and verbal abuse directed at the Basketball team" is at the heart of the issue, they claim.

In a letter dated May 16 to Dr. Sherilyn Smith, principal of Eisenhower, parents requested a meeting to discuss Vaughn: "She has viciously made comments to our daughters that have literally destroyed their self-esteem, caused noticeable stress, and unfortunately, produced strong desires within the girls to withdraw from Eisenhower's basketball program."

In a follow-up letter dated May 28, parents expressed "dismay" because they alleged Vaughn "has failed to conduct herself in a consistently professional manner." Some of the cited incidents included cursing at students in the presence of peers and classmates, referring to them in derogatory terms, and kicking a player after removing her from a game. The list of grievances also referred to Vaughn's ethics. The Parents Group claimed that she "undermines parents' authority, cavorts with students (off-campus) on a one-on-one basis, and separates students based on their support/non support of her and her program." The Parents Group have even requested an audit of all basketball funds, monies raised, and expenditures.

This chain of events began when Dr. Smith was approached by 3 of the students' parents. Parents then addressed the issue to the District. An investigation then took place, involving Assistant Superintendent Mick Brown and Joe Davis. Parents were calling for Vaughn's resignation. At the conclusion of the investigation, it was the recommendation of the District that Vaughn not be dismissed. Parents then brought the allegations to an open board meeting July 9, where they had the opportunity to publicly express their concern over a pattern of behavior that they claimed had been going on for

Dennis Schatzman Dies From Asthma

Black Voice News

ONTARIO

By Cheryl Brown

Shock verberated all over the country as the word of the sudden death of journalist extraordinaire Dennis Schatzman was announced. He died from a severe asthma attack. His provocative pen has been silenced.

Schatzman is best known for his hard hitting journalism and his coverage of the O.J. Simpson criminal trial. He changed the focus of the coverage of that trial and drew attention to the difference in the coverage of Black Press and the other media. When the trial ended he co-authored a book, O.J. Simpson Trial in Black & White with another reporter, Tom Elias, who covered the trial with a different view. It was his different view that got O.J. Simpson's attention. "Dennis Schatzman's writings have been an enlightening, insightful, and inspirational. We have lost a courageous voice in the community. Dennis was a true champion for justice," O.J. Simpson told Black Voice News.

The O.J. trial was not the first time he showed courage. He was also elected District Court Judge in the City of Pittsburgh. He served three years on the bench, where he adjudicated over 3,000 criminal cases. He was then appointed City Controller. In 1985 Schatzman uncovered the state of Pennsylvania's largest political scandal. Because of his courage, astute journalism and tenacious pursuit, he was successful in seeing that several state and local elected officials received jail sentences.

Wilbert Tatum, Publisher of the Amsterdam News in New York who often carried his byline said Dennis is a rare breed of journalist whose integrity is such that he would rather starve that compromise his principles. He cared deeply about journalism, his people, the movement and America.

Tatum also said, "he probably cared so much that it is quite likely he gave his life by ignoring the warning signs of illness and working toward that day when all men and women of color would be free in this country, thus freeing America from it's dilemma."

This was the case for the Black Voice News. He was working on a story concerning the changing boundary lines in the high school areas of the Riverside School District and the charge that the Black community would be more adversely impacted than the others. On the day that he died he had been with some young students at Loyola University. He didn't feel well and asked his constant companion, wife Sandra to take him home. She went outdoors to water the lawn and when she returned she said he looked distressed so she told him he should go to the hospital. He agreed and when she was no more that 3 blocks away from home his breathing became worse. She stopped and called paramedics who told her to give CPR until they arrived. They arrived two minutes later and immediately put him on life support. He was revived, and was transported to San Antonio Hospital where they were unable to revive him a second time.

Following his work at the Sentinel and after locating to the Inland Empire he became affiliated with the Black Voice News as a reporter investigating local issues. At the time of his death he was working on three investigative projects. "We will miss his good nature, his excellent writing skills and his wit," said Hardy Brown Co-Publisher.

"Dennis will be sorely missed in the halls where journalists gather, for he was one who refused to compromise truth and that, at long last, is what journalism is all about. I will personally miss his warmth, his humor, his candor, and his love for humankind," said Brian Townsend, Publisher of Precinct Reporter and President of the West Coast Black Publisher's Association.

He was not only a writer with the CORE Times (Congress of Racial Equality) he was a special advisor and the News Director. "I just don't know what I'm going to do without Dennis. I never imagined he would leave. Dennis was perfectly in tune with the attitude of those of us who were running CORE. He is absolutely irreplaceable to us and will be missed for a long time," said Celes King, CORE State Chair.

OBITUARY

Dennis Clyde Schatzman was born February 6, 1950 in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania to Clyde Murdock Schatzman and Ann Ruth Ludiway-Schatzman. Although he was the only child born to this union, he was always surrounded by family and friends that loved him, as well as a host of extended family.

Dennis was baptized at the Bethel A.M.E. Church in Pittsburgh, on September 10, 1950. During his childhood years, he accepted Christ, grew with his church family and remained a lifetime A.M.E. member.

Dennis attended local schools in Pittsburgh, and was a graduate of Westinghouse High School where he was recently inducted into their Hall of Fame. As a proud 1972 graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, Dennis earned the title of an "All-American" NCAA track and field star in 1970. While attending "Pitt," Dennis pledged the Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, and remained a proud, loyal and active member. He continued his educational pursuit at the Dickinson School of Law and Clemson University, School of Business. It was during this time of his life that his love for journalism grew.

He held positions as a general assignment reporter with the "Baltimore Afro-American Newspaper." After launching his journalism career, Dennis went on to become the city editor with the "New Pittsburgh Courier," managing editor of the "Winston-Salem Chronicle," and a news reporter for "Black Issues in Higher Education."

In 1990, Dennis left Pittsburgh for the challenge of being one of the many journalists in California. Upon his arrival, he became a member of the First A.M.E. Church of Los Angeles. Joining the staff of the Los Angeles Sentinel, Dennis continued to represent the voice of the people. Schatzman, a syndicated columnist for over 20 years, leaves behind a legacy of international stories published in newspapers throughout the country. The list includes: The Pittsburgh Courier; L.A. Sentinel; The Black Voice News; Riverside; Pittsburgh Post Gazette; The New York Amsterdam News; San Francisco Chronicle; Minneapolis Spokesman; Precinct Reporter; San Bernardino; Orange County Business Journal; Philadelphia New Observer; The New York Times; The Washington Post; The Daily Journal; L.A.

Weekly; and many many more. During this time, Dennis was a much sought out talk show guest. He appeared on many television and radio talk shows such as The Today Show with Bryant Gumbel, Rolanda, The Larry King Show, Rivera Live, CNBC, Judge For Yourself, Extra, American Journal, "E" TV (Entertainment Television), Burden of Proof, KABC News Talk Radio, WVON The Talk of Chicago, and was interviewed and quoted by many others.

Dennis was not only a staff writer for the CORE Times Magazine (Congress of Racial Equality), he was also the organization's special advisor and the News Director.

In 1995, Dennis accepted a position as a Professor of Journalism at California State University at Fullerton, to teach in the Communications Department. His class, Comm 101, was widely received by enthusiastic students.

Sandra Mancha Schatzman entered Dennis' life in 1993, and as he quotes in his most recent book, Sandra is "my best friend, my lover, my soulmate, who provided the emotional backbone that was needed to complete the task." Dennis acknowledges that "I owe everything to her." Dennis and Sandra enjoyed traveling together throughout the country on business and visiting family and friends.

Schatzman, was preceded in death by his parents and his stepson Christopher Mancha.

He leaves to cherish his memory, his wife Sandra of Ontario, CA and his daughter, Cicely of Richmond, VA and a host of other relatives, family and friends.

Is Big Brother & Big Business In Bed at your Expense?

By Hardy Brown

Is Big Brother watching you? Well, Big brother might not be watching you but he is selling everything about you to his little brother. When I discovered that the California Department of Motor Vehicles, a state agency, is selling information that they collect, I asked myself why would anyone be interested unless it is going to make money. Insurance companies are buying information you think is private. This information is being sold to insurance companies for two purposes: first, to not increase the rates of good drivers; second, to increase the rates of drivers they deem to have more tickets. They can increase your costs or that of the entire community. They collect information from the DMV on how many traffic tickets or auto accident reports that you might have had. That is why some people do not report small accidents to protect their rates. We know that police stop and write more tickets in the Black and Hispanic communities than the majority community, therefore our rates are higher. What if a background check is done on you for employment purposes? This can and has prevented people from getting employed. What if the information has been corrected but the list purchased missed the cut off date? The DMV sold $50 million dollars worth of personal information last year to insurance companies.

The DMV is not the only state agency in the business of selling your information to the highest bidder or those companies who want to contact you but don't know how. The Department of Health Services and the California University system also participate in this practice.

We pay taxes to establish these departments. Then we pay for the service. We provide information that is, in some instance, required by law. Then they turn around and sell that information without our permission. I think the practice should be investigated by our elected representatives to determine if misuse has occurred. The current practice gives the appearance that Big Government is in bed with Big Business at the expense of small taxpayers. What do you think?

To Be Equal

Hugh B. Price

Black Voice News

NEW YORK

Hugh B. Price

President National Urban League

It's the middle of the summer the air is thick with heat, and most of us are thinking more of the beaches than schools.

But I've just read a new book which has brought the educational future of our children -- particularly those in public schools that are predominantly Black and Hispanic -- back to the center of my consciousness.

This book, The Right To Learn: A Blueprint for Creating Schools That Work, is with well-documented evidence and clear, forceful prose, urgently sounding an alarm America must heed.

Its author, Professor Linda Darling-Hammond, of Columbia University's Teachers College, says that we must act now to fix the future of millions of poor and minority school children.

That is, we must act now in order to ensure that they get the kind of schooling which enables them to build their own future as productive members of society.

That kind of schooling is critical for them and us all in this new era when, as Darling-Hammond puts it, "perhaps even the survival of nations and people [is] so tightly tied to their ability to learn. Consequently, our future depends now, as never before, on our ability to teach."

The importance of the blueprint that Darling-Hammond presents for doing that seems to be reinforced with every fresh news story about the tight connection now between the quality of schooling our children receive and their chances of finding decent jobs.

For example, a recent study found that today's high school graduates aren't as prepared to enter the workforce as they think.

The study, sponsored by Amway and Junior Achievement, whose programs seek to acquaint young people with the business world, determined that 90% of graduating high school seniors feel they're prepared to enter the workforce directly. However, only 51 percent of employers -- those doing the hiring -- feel that way. Nearly 6 out of 10 employers say that the high school graduates they see lack such fundamental skills as the ability to write adequately.

One contribution of The Right to Learn is that it describes where such a mismatch begins and how its effect intensifies over time. It stems from the inequality which is "deeply embedded in the American schooling system" -- an inequality that first shows itself in school districts' sharply unequal access to adequate revenues.

These great disparities in revenues disproportionately harm poor and minority pupils because they're concentrated in the rural and urban school districts with the smallest tax base. These school districts -- with some striking exceptions -- overwhelmingly contain the schools with the most outdated equipment, least challenging curricula, and the largest numbers of unprepared teachers. Darling-Hammond says.

Fortunately, she does not leave the matter there. Instead, she shows us that the pathway to improving poor-quality schooling is clear because it has already been traversed in schools across the country.

She presents the conclusive evidence that poor and minority pupils can meet high academic standards -- if certain conditions prevail.

Those conditions are the same that exist as a matter of course for the overwhelming majority of schoolchildren from affluent families and from White families.

That is to say, if the schools these children attend have teachers well prepared in the subjects they teach and in effective methods of teaching.

If the schools they attend offer courses which stimulate their curiosity, and ambition and self-confidence.

And if the schools they attend are properly outfitted for teaching -- well-supplied with up-to-date textbooks and computers and other teaching materials, with small-ish enrollments that produce the right kind of student-teacher ratios.

While it is true that the solutions to the problems of school failure and inequality will require a major revamping of the nation's system of schooling, Linda Darling-Hammond would be the first to say that those of us at the local-school level cannot merely wait for that to occur.

We know what works. We must exercise the will and the determination to bring it about. We educators, parents, elected officials, community leaders and taxpayers -- must commit ourselves to improving the schools neighborhood by neighborhood if necessary.

Because it is true that all children have a right to learn, and deserve the opportunity to achieve it.

And because it is true that, as the Urban League slogan declares: Our Children = "Our Destiny."

BVN Readers: What's On Your Mind?

GENOCIDAL HOMICIDE

I have read and given serious thought to the Tuskegee Syphilis Study as recently discussed in Black Voice News and other media. The government cannot escape responding to African-Americans simply by only apologizing to us in general, and to the Tuskegee surviving Black male-patients and their families in particular, regardless of how culpable it was in its "killing field" laboratory experiment. In my opinion, President Clinton's apology left much to be addressed before the minds of African-Americans can be put at ease about the study carried out by the government on poor, unlearned and trusting back male patients. As a matter of fact, the experiment and subsequent apology has raised a few questions in my mind, especially since America (on paper at least) and medical doctors by oath, purportedly value human life. Logic, therefore, dictates the need for discussion and answers to buttress the apology.

To begin with, how does the government justify limiting the research to the Black male, when it was the White male who brought the disease of syphilis to these shores? Why was the study continued so long? What was learned? Why haven't the perpetrators of the Tuskegee Study been recognized and penalized? In other words, who and where are the genocidal and mad medical men? Are they not accountable, since their study was responsible for the pain, suffering and/or death of the patients, and perhaps their wives, all of whom thought they were being treated for syphilis by responsible Hippocratic oath-takers? Accountability is indicated because of the irrefutable evidence that the study was designed to monitor the pain, suffering and slow eventual death of the patients, who were unable to survive the untreated disease. The Hippocratic oath did not serve the hypocrite well, insofar as moral and ethical values are concerned.

Aside from the ethical and moral violations, was a determination even made about any criminal violations on the part of the perpetrators of this dastardly event? Why have the genocidal maniacs been permitted to go undetected/ Have their licenses to practice medicine been revoked, or have they been permitted to continue the practice of medicine? If so, these made-in-America terrorists may even today be providing medical care to Black patients. What legal action should be taken against every professional person involved in the study?

Finally, has the government financed similar studies on African Americans by genocidal medical terrorists bent on unleashing their awesome power against our people. We need reassurance. But unless a whistle-blower comes forth, how will we ever know? Medical intervention in the Tuskegee study was truly, at worst, sufficient proof of the government's genocidal instincts toward our people. What's next?

over a three years. Stan Webster, representing the group, called the board meeting an "emotional" one, as parents and eleven past and present basketball players detailed examples of mental and physical abuse caused by Vaughn. In one reported instance, Vaughn refused to remove a player from a game even when she exhibited pronounced shortness of breath and had a documented medical problem, asthma.

"It's so sad," said Smith. "It's sad for the girls, sad when parents can't work with the coach, and it hurts the school. It's one of the most gut-wrenching, hurtful things I've seen," she said.

The Parents Group has also received the support of groups like NAACP, MAPA, PEOPLE, and the Nation of Atoners. "It's hurting the kids at this point," Hyman Gibson said, San Bernadino regional representative for the NAACP. Gibson also places part of the blame on school administrators. According to Gibson, if they had reacted to complaints made by parents concerning Vaughn's coaching, the current proceedings could have been avoided. "My concern is that the school is not enforcing the law concerning the coach's behavior," Gibson said.

This past Monday, school officials and students had an opportunity to respond to the Parents Group's allegations. Vaughn spoke on her own behalf and stated that she cares very much for the basketball program. She denied ever kicking a student. Several students also spoke in her behalf

USDA Joins Forces With HUD to fight Discrimination

Black Voice News

WASHINGTON

The U.S. Department of Agriculture can now assist rural Americans with housing discrimination complaints more quickly, efficiently, and with more remedies thanks to a new working arrangement with the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman and Housing Secretary Andrew Cuomo recently announced that under a new agreement, USDA will refer all fair housing discrimination claims to HUD. Under this system, HUD attorneys will present complaints and HUD administrative law judges will hear the cases.

Equal Housing Opportunity

"The American dream of homeownership must not succumb to the nightmare of discrimination," Glickman said. "Equal access to own or rent rural housing is necessary if we are to complete our mission to help build a better rural America," he said, adding that USDA has "zero-tolerance for discriminatory practices" in any of its programs. "This agreement with HUD is part of USDA's commitment to ensure the civil rights of all customers and employees of USDA, and it's also an important part of the President's race initiative."

"Housing discrimination is illegal and intolerable everywhere in America -- whether in our biggest cities or in our smallest rural crossroads," Cuomo said. "Beginning today, we will bring the full force of the Fair Housing Act to bear to stamp out housing discrimination everywhere in our country."

The Fair Housing Act provides several rights and remedies that USDA, before this agreement, did not have at its disposal, including the power to impose temporary restraining orders, use subpoenas during investigations, employ testers where appropriate, and impose civil penalties, punitive damages, and damages for pain and suffering.

Through its various rental and homeownership loan programs, USDA is the nation's largest provider of rural housing. As part of the agreement, USDA and HUD will share information and documents about civil rights claims which allege a violation of the Fair Housing Act. They will also jointly investigate these claims, maintain and share a cumulative list of claims, and participate in joint training on fair housing.

In addition, USDA is reviewing all programs and activities to investigate any past discrimination in the sale or rental of rural housing it finances. Any discrimination uncovered by the investigation will be aggressively prosecuted, Glickman said.

In 1996, USDA financed new or improved homeownership opportunities for over 61,000 low to moderate income families in rural America. Since 1949 USDA has helped over 2 million rural families purchase their own home and has financed construction of 458,000 units of affordable rental housing in rural areas.

Under the Fair Housing Act, HUD receives 10,000 claims of housing discrimination annually. Approximately 11 percent of those come from non-metropolitan areas.

While the agreement provides that HUD will investigate and decide fair housing claims, USDA will continue to process complaints under Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and the Age Discrimination Act of 1975.

Allegations Run Rampant at Eisenhower High

to express to the board their admiration and respect for Vaughn.

The student that Vaughn denied kicking also spoke up at the meeting to state that she was kicked and that Vaughn was lying.

School board officials have considered testimony from both board meetings and there was a closed session Wednesday night. Parents have been told by school officials that there will be a final decision on the matter by Aug. 9.

Webster told the Black Voice News that last Monday's meeting was unsatisfactory to him and parents. "Grievances were not answered and were not addressed. She [Vaughn] has not admitted fault and denies everything," he said.

Webster also stated that Vaughn should be removed from her position of basketball coach and need not be removed from her teaching responsibilities.

Emotions are mixed as it seems apparent to school officials and parents that loyalties and support for Vaughn is split in half. "The program is in disarray," Webster said. "The team is divided in half. Half the girls want Vaughn to go and half want her to stay," he said.

Ernest C. Levister, Jr., M.D., F.A.C.P., F.A.C.P.M.

Yes, he's good, very good. Record breaking good. But there are dozens of other record breaking athletes in the country, and golf is generally not a sport that quickens American pulses.

Yes, he's young, 21. We have had 17 year old tennis champions. We have had gymnastic champions barely out of infancy. Of course there is race. An Asian-African-American Master's champion is as rare as April snow in August. Tiger has taken the Brits by storm as the favorite to win the British Open. To the light of hoofers world wide there's nothing remotely like the Woods phenomena.

Yes, excellence, youth and

Smile! A Healthy Lesson from Tiger Woods

ethnicity account for much of the Woods' mania. But Woods is more than just good, young, Black, and Asian. He is gracious. His million dollar smile has captured the hearts of us all. Win or lose, on or off the course, Tiger Woods exudes the joy and peaceful tranquility we all strive for. In an age of the commercially hyped, trash talking, tattooed, ear piercing, hair dyeing, in-your-face sports stars, here is someone who combines great athleticism with decency, politeness, and respectfulness.

Tiger's uncommon grace radiates not just in his respect for his parents, his elders, or competitors. He has a deep respect for himself and his health. He recently told Time Magazine, "I love life and all its hue. I respect myself and my body. What you see," he says, "comes from within."

Tiger has a deep respect for the difficulty of his craft. For all his awareness of it he is anchored in the history and mystery of his game. Tiger says when he's on a losing streak, which is rare, he smiles and reaches within the well spring of his mind and body for resources. This is not exactly humility. One does not expect humility from someone who drives a ball 350 yards with accuracy and win six of his 19 pro tournaments.

We can all take a lesson from Woods: good health starts from within. We are overcome with relief to find, rising out of the swamp of rotten behavior, a breath of fresh air like Woods. We are mesmerized not just because he is a great athlete. Not just because he is a gifted young African-Asian-American athlete. But because he is a paragon and a rarity: a gentleman athlete.

Family Talks

Joseph A. Bailey, II M.D., F.A.C.S.

Facing our problems puts a boundary between them and our peace of mind. Each problem, when placed into a Problem Box, implies that there are unknowns to be solved, weak links to be strengthened, and familiar information needing review. However, re-entering this box requires dissolving its imprisoning intricate mental chains and locks. Defense mechanisms, as in blaming others to avoid seeing the part we played, represent most mental locking devices. The Key To Dissolving The Lock Is Searching For The Truth. Once inside, we must put the problem in its proper world. Reasoning cannot be used to solve feeling problems, feelings to solve rational problems, or either to solve faith problems. To clarify and gain a different view of each problem might require: (1) more education, training, and experience; (2) more in-depth thought; and (3) locating, researching, and understanding key words -- those we do not know, those we think we know, and especially those we "know."

Step I: Defining the Problem

In medicine, doctors start defining the problem by having patients list their chief complaints. From the patient's perspective, the main complaint is determined by asking: "if you had one difficulty to solve first, which one would it be?" Then, "What is next after that?" and so on, numbering them in order of their importance. Each complaint is explored for its ability to prove or disprove a point. During the evaluation, doctors try to determine if the complaints are real, distorted, or fantasy, as well as their actual medical priority. Finally, all information is placed against a standard of health or illness to determine how much the evaluation conforms with that standard.

In summary, problem definitions are the identification of the true nature of those problems through thorough questioning. Often, the one stated and the real one are not the same. The process is to determine how it all began, how it appears, what it is about, and seeing what it does. This is done by using answers to certain questions to form other questions that narrow the possible problem. After getting to the essence -- the most important features related to the point -- the problem is prioritized and defined. An old saying "a job well-planned is a job half done, can be modified to "A Problem Well-Defined Is A Plan Half Done!"

Job Corps Targets Women For Training

Black Voice News

SAN BERNARDINO

The Job Corps Admissions Counselor in San Bernardino County is targeting women to train for jobs through the Job Corps program.

Women in Community Service, a non-profit organization contracted out by the federal government to provide outreach, admissions, and support services, is encouraging young women to train for jobs as medical assistants, computer operators, electricians, drafters, plumbers, mechanics, computer services technicians, and many other exciting vocations.

To be eligible applicants must be from a low-income family, between 16-24 years old and not attending traditional high school (high school graduate, continuation school, high school drop out).

Applications are taken by appointment only. Enrollment is year round. Young women interested in the program can call (909) 888-8128 or 1-800-Job-Corp.

Scholarship Pageant Goes National

Black Voice News

For the fifth consecutive year, The Little Miss African American (LMAA) Scholarship Pageant will be held, on Sunday, August 3, 1997, at the Universal Sheraton, Universal City, CA., at 4:00 PM. The brainchild of actress/choreographer/singer, Lisa Ruffin, the LMAA is a close and personal matter. "When I was the age of the young girls in our program, I had powerful dreams that helped me to see myself doing exciting things like going to Julliard School of Music, performing as a dancer and an actress. I was fortunate to have a family that helped me realize those dreams. That's why I organized the Little Miss African American Scholarship Pageant. Working with the wonderful parents of our girls, I feel that I'm helping to support the dreams of some of our future leaders," says Ruffin.

Actresses Dawnn Lewis and Suzanne Douglas will again host this year's event, and actress Salli Richardson will be the Mistress of Ceremonies for the evening. Stellar performances are guaranteed by R&B balladeer Freddie Jackson and members of the Andre Crouch Choir. Otis Sallid, who choreographed the 1996 Academy Award dance numbers, will lend his talents for the evening, along with choreographers Neisha Folkles (The Alvin Ailey American Dance Theatre) and LMAA Founder, Lisa Ruffin.

The list of celebrity judges, include: Anna Maria Horsford, Darius McCrary, Tisha Campbell, Simbi Khali, who stars in "3rd Rock From The Sun," Howard Hewett, Vanessa Bell Calloway, record producer, Paul Lawrence, and President of Yab Yum Records, Tracey Edmonds.

Lisa Ruffin, an accomplished actress and choreographer originally instituted the competition as an educational vehicle for young African American females. As a scholarship opportunity, LMAA has become instrumental in guiding it participants toward a positive future. The contestants learn Confidence, Awareness and Pride (CAP). In addition to the $15,000.00 in prizes to be awarded, the preparation process for the young contestants incorporates a learning experience defined to forever impact lives.

The Little Miss African American Scholarship Pageant is sponsored by Essence Magazine, Quincy Jones/Qwest Records, Kingdom/Michael Jackson, Shaquille O'Neal, Pepsi, Def Pictures, Emmitt Smith, Hughes Aircraft, and Xerox.

A non profit organization, ticket information regarding the event can be obtained by calling 213-960-1730.

Robert Grace Remembered By Friends and Family

Robert Grace

By Cheryl Brown

Funeral services were held for Robert L. Grace, Sr. last Friday at New Hope Baptist Church in San Bernardino. Grace was remembered for what good neighbors are all about. He was remembered as a husband, father, neighbor, friend, community activist, Fraternal brother, military man, and a Christian, who practiced the principles of Christ in his daily walk. He was called a renaissance man by his son, Robert, Jr. as he fought back the tears. (His father was proud to see him grow up, go to college and prouder still that he became an L.A. District Attorney.) "He grew up in the racist south, but I never heard him complain about racism." He understood how it shaped our lives but he didn't let it be a crutch to hold him back from excelling in the Military. He served in World War II, Korean War, and Vietnam and rose up the ranks retiring with rank of Chief Warrant Officer, grade 4. He earned the Air Force classification of Hospital Administrator/ Medical Administrative Officer. Adult men who were boys in the neighborhood recalled growing up having sleepouts in his back yard. How his Boy Scout involvement at the church helped to shape young men for the past 30 years.

Councilwoman Betty Anderson recalled his commitment to children, and the aroma of bacon cooking in the yard after one of his famous sleepovers, as well as the barbeque he prepared for the Prince Hall Lodge #17. "He never suggested reciprocal deed of deed," she said.

"His accomplishments didn't mean one thing if you haven't joined Christ," said Rev. Marvin Brown in the Eulogy. Brown took his text from Ecclesiastic 7:1. A good name is better than precious ointment. Robert Grace lived a good life and had a good name.

I Am In Love With A Married Woman?

Questions & Answers

By Dr. Reginald Woods

QUESTION: Dear Pastor Woods: I have allowed myself to fall in love with a woman that is married. I wish I could just lay this desire aside, however, it is overwhelming. I believe it is possible that God is leading us together and that she married the wrong man. What do you think about this situation?

Anthony, Riverside, CA

ANSWER: Dear Sir, I can guarantee you that God is not involved in your desire. When two people make a marital commitment, then God confirms that commitment and they become "one flesh" (Genesis 2:24) God is not into destroying marriages.

It is simple to have a strong desire of the flesh and try to justify that desire. Only Satan destroys marriages. You and she both need to repent and trust God that he will alter your desires in another path.

I would suggest strongly that you avoid any contact with her as much as possible until you conquer this erroneous desire. God is not for adultery. Adultery cannot be justified. It is not acceptable. If you are truly sincere about your relationship with God, you will look to change this situation. I pray you do so expeditiously.

If you have a question that you would like answered, write: Dr. Reginald L. Woods, Life Changing Ministries, P.O. Box 9778, San Bernardino, CA 92427-9778

Bill Pickett Rodeo Salutes the Black Cowboys

HELP: A buller rider (r) can't get his hand loose and the life saving clown comes into distract the bull while the rider pulls free.

Spills, thrills and history were on display at the Los Angeles Equestrian Center.

By LELAND STEIN III
Black Voice News Sports Editor

BURBANK, Ca - Once is not enough! Let's do it again!

To the soldout audience at the Los Angeles Equestrian Center, the Bill Pickett Rodeo could have continued another three hours after the final event was concluded and the curtain was lowered on the best - and really the only - Black rodeo show in the world.

In fact, many in attendance were repeat customers - once you experience the Bill Pickett rodeo you never miss the once-a-year extravaganza.

Those of us who have experienced the spills and thrills of man verse animal, generally know what to expect, but the irony of the event is that you never know what to expect. The unpredictability of the event is real, and, the underlying very real danger of man verse a 1,000 pound horse or 2,000 pound mad-as-heck bull or doggin' a full horned steer keeps all at the very edge of their seats.

Although the event and what it represents - history - is enough to keep the repeat customer making the trek to the L.A. Equestrian Center every year. Just saluting the Black cowboys and cowgirls and enjoying the show is more than enough, but the founder and owner, Lu Vason, of the largest Black touring rodeo in America is always looking to improve his product.

This year was the first time a queen contest was held. Rodeo queen has long been a mainstay of rodeos and this year BPIR crowned their first, both winners were from the Inland Empire. Senior queen 18-24 was Regina Brown of San Bernardino sponsored by Freeway Lincoln/Mercury Volkswagon and Krystal Braxton of Norco sponsored by Black Voice News.

"It's getting better every year, although there are people out there trying to capitalize on what we've started," noted Vason, who is now in his 13th year producing the Bill Pickett Invitational Rodeo. "It may make it more difficult, but look at this crowd (soldout arena). I'm as enthused as the day we started. We are trying to create new things, such as the Pony Express Relay and including more women events, too."

"One thing I've noticed here in Los Angeles is that the Rodeo is more an event, because of the celebrities that are involved... but in, lets say Oklahoma, the rodeo itself and the quality of the performances are more the focus. So, we just have to have the versatility to adjust to the environment we are servicing."

Indeed, when the rodeo comes to Los Angeles the celebrity participation is a measurable addendum. During the Sunday show Olivia Brown, Kiki Sheppard, Glynn Turman, Roger Mosley and Jennifer Lewis were in the house and participated in the overall program.

The celebrities added a nice flavor to the show, but the cowboys and cowgirls were the main course and the reason everyone donned their cowboy hats, boots, Wranglers jeans, loads of the kids and moseyed on down to the L.A. Equestrian Center. And as usual, the performers did not disappoint.

Beside enacting quality performances in events such as calf ropin', bareback ridin', bull doggin', calf scramble, ladies steer undecoratin', ladies barrel racin', and everyone's favorite the bull ridin', the salute to the Black cowboys and cowgirls is a major theme to the success to the event.

The Bill Pickett Invitational rodeo offers a remembrance of the history of the African-American in the formation of the wild-west. A history that somehow was excluded from 99% of the American history books.

"You know Black cowboys have always been around, but never got credit," Explained Jesse Guillory Operations Manager and and a top performer, too. "So, it makes my day when someone comes up to me and says, 'You were great and I had a wonderful time at the Bill Pickett, plus I learned something about my lost heritage.'"

Added Stanley Knowles, a bull dogger from Atlanta: "See all the brothers and sisters in the stands? I say there really are not too many events in America that can bring together all these brother and sister, and, you don't see any problems. Everywhere we travel it's like this and that can't be anything but positive, right?"

The Pickett not only salutes the Black cowboy and gives them another vehicle to showcase their skills, but provides monetary compensation as well for the top performers in each show. Make no mistake about it, the performers are out to compete and win prize money for their efforts.

Even within the realism of making a living, the cowboys and cowgirls offsprings compete just as hard, but for the love of it.

For example, this year's rodeo added steer riding for the 8 to 12-year-old youth. Although the 300 pound steers were tossing the kids like salad, the fans were in full vocal support of the gallant young cowpokes' courage and determination.

One youth that took the audience by storm was Rufus Haynes, 11, son of Sedgwick Haynes the performance director of the Pickett. Rufus performed in the Barrel racin' and posted one of the top times of the day. "I've been performing since I was 3," he said. "I like ropin' because it's fun. But the break-away is most fun because it feels like I'm on a rollercoaster or something." And that's exactly what you get at the Pickett, an emotional rollercoaster ride of fun, remembrances and history.

More Than A Pretty Face

△ Ananda Lewis carves her niche in the industry as one of America's rising Black females

Black Voice News

RIVERSIDE

By Jenether Stampley

Ananda Lewis has definitely carved her niche in the entertainment industry, as one of America's rising Black females. Ananda Lewis is known to the viewers of America as the host of BET's Teen Summit. What many do not know is that Ms. Lewis is also the show's associate producer. Ananda Lewis is the recipient of the 1997 NAACP Image Award for her presided interview with the First Lady of the United States, Hillary Rodham Clinton. Ananda Lewis is without a doubt, what America needs in the entertainment field. She is a strong, Black female working to bring a positive image for the youth of today. As a youth, Lewis attended the San Diego School of Creative and Performing Arts, studying theater, music, and dance. While attending the San Diego School of Creative and Performing Arts, Lewis starred in the San Diego production of "For Color Girls Who Considered Suicide When The Rainbow Was Not Enuf." Lewis also founded the school's Black Student Union (BSU). In 1991 Lewis enrolled in Howard University. She recently graduated from Howard, Cum Laude, with a degree in history. I recently had the opportunity to interview Ms. Lewis via telephone in which she answered questions on such topics as religion, future plans and goals:

BVN: To whom do you give credit for your achievements and inspiration?

AL: God, myself and bad experiences. In that order.

BVN: What do you consider the most important element in uniting the youth of our country?

AL: Fearlessness-Not being afraid of our highest possibility. Not being afraid of our individuality as human beings. Not being afraid of being the best that we can all be and allowing others to be that as well.

BVN: What was it that made you focus on helping and working with youth?

AL: It just kind of started happening and I knew I was good at it so I kept doing it.

BVN: Where do you see yourself 20 years from now?

AL: (Laughs) I can't see

myself 20 years from now. I'm too focused on the present. I don't even try too!(Says jokingly)

BVN: If there was one message you wanted to stress to the youth of today, what would it be?

AL: To be comfortable with who you are, because the level of your comfortability is directly related to the level of your success. But also, to stay committed to whatever goals you have set for yourself and not to expect too much from other people, in the way of assistance or having your back, because really you were born in the world alone, you're gonna die in the world alone. And most of what you do is gonna be on your own. Most of what you do is going to be accomplished because you put effort into it and did it, not because someone handed it to you.

BVN: What part does our Creator play in your life and work?

AL: She wakes me up in the morning and allows me to have fitful sleeps. What role doesn't she play, I think is more my answer. Every single aspect from crossing the street safely to knowing who to trust to everything! Everything! God is constantly in our lives and constantly around us and in every living and breathing thing.

BVN: What can be done to reestablish the church as our number one support group?

AL: I don't know if it can be done and I don't know if young people necessarily want that to be done. I think that the churches that still have a high number of young people in their congregation really need to focus on ways to make religion, and see, we're talking about a broad subject anyway, because church, does that mean Protestant or Catholic or Christian or Baptist? What does it mean? It depends on what the church's fundamental belief systems are and how they interpret the Bible. What they ask of their congregation in terms of rules and regulations, that are not necessarily found in the Bible, but that they put on them anyway, and a whole number of other things. So how we get them back involved is a kind of multi-faceted answer. I guess it would involve what I just said as well as the young people wanting to come back into the fold.

BVN: What are your future plans?

AL: I would certainly love to keep doing Teen Summit for as long as possible, however long that is, and then after that look at some other options. I have a lot of different interests so I don't want to put my finger down on one thing too hard; I might miss out on the other things that are coming up. And I'm interested in a lot of different things, so I'm just gonna see what happens and put my feelers out and based on what comes up decide what the best next move is.

Game Works: Let the Games Begin!

Δ New Entertainment Club Offers Games, Music and Social Interaction in Ontario

Black Voice News

By Roberto Carlos Hernandez

GameWorks, a new kind of club which redefines play, will open its doors this summer in late July at the Ontario Mills Mall. Called by its creators "the newest entertainment experience," the club combines the best of the industry's music, games and technology. It was inspired by GameWorks SKG, Sega Enterprises and Universal Studios Inc., and developed under the guidance of Steven Spielberg.

GameWork's main areas include the Loading Dock, a competitive zone where players can put the newest games to the test; the Arena, a high-energy area that features GameWorks' signature and multi-player games; and the Loft, a relaxing environment offering a variety of classic video games, traditional games, Internet activities, as well as food, beverages, and a full bar. The 31,000 square foot sire is located forty-five minutes outside of Los Angeles and will be the newest highlight of the Ontario Mills Mall.

"Ontario Mills has become a destination for many Southern Californians," Michael Montgomery said, president and COO of Sega GameWorks. "GameWorks adds a new dimension to the experience by attracting local area residents as well as out-of-town visitors to a club that offers the best games, food and full bar in a very interactive, social environment," he said.

This GameWorks is the third one to open this year. The first GameWorks opened in Seattle in March and the second club debuted on The Strip in Las Vegas in May. Upcoming GameWorks locations include Dallas, Texas; Tempe, Arizona; and Rio de Janiero, Brazil.

Signature games, those that were designed and developed by GameWorks, include Vertical Reality and GameArc. Up to twelve players are strapped into chairs on Vertical Reality which rise and fall, up to 24 feet, as they conquer new levels, and battle adversaries. GameArc is a networked game that features state-of-the-art video displays and an elaborate sound system. Up to eight players battle against each other. Other multiplayer games include three-dimensional sound simulator games, photo-realistic racing competitions, and interactive action adventures.

"These types of games and systems are what separates us from everything else," said Mark Stutz, creative producer of GameWorks. "Our goal was to merge technology, like those of rides, and video games to get the most interactive game ever. The future of games is more interaction," he said.

Other high energy games will include Indy 500 Formula, Daytona USA, Top Skate, Wave Runner, Alpine Surfer, and Super GT. Classic game, like PacMan and Ms. PacMan, Centipede, and Missile Command, will also be part of the GameWorks roster as will pool tables, Foosball tables, and Air Hockey tables.

All the GameWorks facilities feature a full service restaurant with various specialty items as well as a "Fries Station," serving fries, sodas, and a full service bar. GameWorks Ontario will introduce the first ever GameWorks Coffee Bar. The location will also feature the "GameWorks Gear" retail shop offering jackets, shirts, hats and other accessories.

Tune Into This- West Coast Radio

Black Voice News
RIVERSIDE
By Jenether Stampley

Recently, the 15.30 AM West Coast Radio Show launched its debut. The hosts of West Coast Radio are what some would call "children", but they have proven to be worthy of the position as hosts. James Jordan, 16, Jermaine Gipson, 17, and Sean Guess, 17, are high school seniors on a mission to do something positive for the community and the youth of today. West Coast radio intends to do just that. The show wishes to aide other young aspiring artists to succeed. West Coast Radio, will not limit its artists and airplay solely to the West Coast. Airing on Saturdays from 5-6 pm, the show will showcase music from all parts of the hip-hop world. The show will cover the entire Inland Empire, thus reaching listeners from as far as Yucca Valley.

Aside from West Coast Radio, the hosts, James, Jermaine and Sean have a rap group called Embezzlement. As performers, they go by the alias' Manifesto (James Jordan), Dinero (Jermaine Gipson) and Leazar (Sean Guess). Embezzlement has acquired much of its experience from performing in local shows. In May of this year, the group performed in the Peace Jam

Show, which also featured the artist Sugar Free. They were also producers of the show. Embezzlement also appears in numerous shows each year, such as the Urban League Talent Show, the Hollywood Talent Show, the Perris Art Festival, and many others. Embezzlement also worked on the soundtrack for the play, "Not My Momma," and have made appearances on 88.3 FM Black College Radio, which airs on Sundays.

James, Jermaine and Sean are just a few of America's talented Black young men. They are doing positive things for their community, and are a great example of what a good role model for today's youth.

James Jordan (Manifesto) has an in-home music studio in which he rents out to other aspiring artists, for $15 an hour. For more information, call (909) 508-0556.

Due to the lack of time in each of their schedules; these young men practice their lyrics over the telephone. In their free time they enjoy playing Basketball and just "kickin' it." These young men are in need of sponsors, so if you're interested give them a call at (909) 943-3840 or (909) 245-5935. These guys are destined for success. So on Saturday evenings "check 'em out!" Let's support our youth, because they are our future!

Beverly Powell Announce Candidacy to Board of Trustees

Black Voice News

SAN BERNARDINO

Beverly Powell announced her decision to run for the Board of Trustees of the San Bernardino Community College District last week at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Will Roberts, located in Rialto.

"After 24 years of exemplary service, Lois Carson is retiring from the Board. She has endorsed me and I want to continue the legacy," stated Powell. "My combined work experience as an educator, congressional assistant, and corporate representative qualify me for the position. Running for this office is an extension of my community involvement and public service."

President Clinton to Address 1997 Urban League Conference

Thirty-four years after the historic civil rights march on Washington the National urban League, under the leadership of President Hugh Price, is embarking on the next civil rights frontier -- economic power -- at the League's 1997 annual conference. President Clinton will have an opportunity to continue his discussion about race when he addresses the conference on Monday, August 4.

The President headlines an impressive roster of national leaders from government, business, law and entertainment who are participating in the four-day conference. Vice President Al Gore will address the final plenary session, Wednesday, August 6, 10:30 - 11:30 a.m. Minority Leader Representative, Richard Gephardt will debate former Vice Presidential candidate, Jack Kemp on the "Impact of Government Policies on the Economic Future of Cities." Labor Secretary, Alexis Herman; Housing Secretary, Andrew Cuomo; Transportation Secretary, Rodney E. Slater and Franklin Raines, Director, White House Office of management and Budget will speak at select sessions.

Publisher Earl Graves, celebrated attorney Johnnie Cochran, ABC News anchor Carole Simpson, Olympian and businesswoman Florence Griffith Joyner, Robert Johnson of Black Entertainment Television and NFL Jacksonville Jaguars part-owner Deron L. Cherry will lead their voices and expertise to the conference.

and received her formal education in the San Bernardino area. She graduated from San Bernardino Valley College. She earned her Bachelor's Degree and Teaching Credential from the University of California, Riverside.

She taught for six years at Eisenhower High School in Rialto. For the last five years she was a congressional assistant to Congressman George Brown of the 42nd District. She now is a Region Manager for Southern California Edison.

Powell and her spouse Michael, who have been married for 17 years, reside in San Bernardino. They have two sons, Tristan, 15 and Kevin, 10.

Little-known 'vitamin' makes love grand

McKinney, TX—Little did Dr. Philip Handler know, back in 1941, that his newly discovered nutrient "Vitamin 15" would one day have men and women all over the country smiling quietly to themselves.

Today, N,N-Dimethylglycine (DMG) is no longer classified as a vitamin. But it has changed the lives of thousands of men and their mates.

A naturally occurring nutrient sold under the brand name Nutri-Surge (but more often called simply "The Love Pill"), DMG works by increasing energy, improving metabolism, enhancing oxygen utilization and increasing the flow of blood to key areas of the anatomy.

NutriSurge has a cumulative effect: the more you take it, the better it works. Most users take two, but up to six tablets may be taken daily. Satisfaction is guaranteed.

See for yourself why thousands swear by NutriSurge. Send $29.95 plus $4.95 postage & handling for a 60-tablet supply to TDM Research, Dept. NSC31, 123 South St. Oyster Bay NY 11771. Or call toll free 1-800-645-9199 and ask for Operator C31. Use the whole supply; then, if you are not completely satisfied, return the box for a full refund.
